

ZENITH UNIVERSITY

Forklift Operator Train-the-Trainer

(PRESENTED IN ENGLISH)

Course Description

The National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health reports that forklifts strike pedestrians every day, resulting in 100 deaths and more than 20,000 injuries annually in the U.S. Every three days, someone in the U.S. is killed in a forklift-related accident. Strict rules require employers to certify that forklift operators are trained and competent to operate forklifts at the worksite.

This train-the-trainer forklift course is for experienced forklift operators and trainers. The classroom-style training program will assist attendees in attaining instructor credentials as described in CCR Title 8 Section 3668, Powered Industrial Truck Operator Training.

The following key topics will be presented:

- Cal/OSHA regulations for Powered Industrial Trucks (PITs)
- Best practices for on-site certification
- Forklift fundamentals and operating rules
- Vehicle inspection and basic maintenance
- Site-specific and environmental hazards
- Practical ideas and training techniques

WHO SHOULD ATTEND THIS SEMINAR?

- Business owners
- Managers and supervisors
- Experienced forklift operators
- Safety coordinators and trainers
